... Board

Watson telling people what he planned to do — should have been explained to the board.

Mrs. Watts said she felt as if "we've been working on a budget with a blindfold."

Dr. Hull told the board his staff could have speculated about the tax rates, but warned, "We might have misled you."

To that, Bert M. Lynn replied, "A low figure would have been better than none." Lynn went on to charge that the board had been given "bum dope" on the tax rate picture, "just as we got bum dope on the override. You have to tell us the whole story and let us make the decision," he said.

DR. HULL again said he had given the board all the information he had, "I don't know everything," he declared.

Trustees agreed with the general feelings expressed by Mrs. Watts, who said the board had a responsibility to take a close look at "every nickle."

The big jump was caused by what Waldrip described as "a drastic change in the policy of the assessor," and could not have been predicted with any degree of accuracy, Dr. Hull said.

Charles quickly came back with, "You can't work 18 years in the field (school finance) and not have a good hunch."

When the debate ended, nothing was—or could be—done about this year's tax rate, but trustees had had their say, and they made it clear they want some speculation next year when the budget is presented.

A new 60-passenger school bus—the first new bus purchased by the Torrance Unified School District since 1956—has been ordered by the district following approval of the purchase by the Board of Education Monday evening.

The new bus, which will be purchased from the Crown Coach Corp. at a price of $13,290.63, will replace equipment which is now 17 years old. John Mock, supervisor of transportation for the district, told trustees the new bus would not increase the size of the school bus fleet.

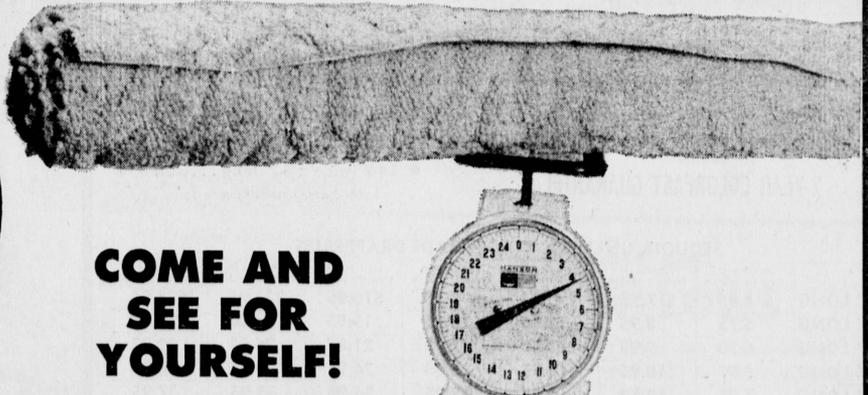

Trustee Bert Lynn, who objected to the purchase of the bus, first moved that the bids be rejected and no bus be purchased. Lynn wants the district to "get out of the transportation business."

In other business matters, the board awarded a variety of contracts for such items as business machines, furniture, athletic supplies, and a printing press. Most of the material will be used in the West. High addition, now nearing completion.
